To the Residents of Americus,

We are writing to inform you of an important and difficult decision regarding the future of the Americus Police Department. After careful consideration, extensive review of our town's finances, and consultation with legal and public safety partners, the governing body has decided to close the Americus Police Department effective February 10th, 2026.

This decision was not made lightly. We recognize the long history of service provided by our local officers and the trust they have built within our community. The safety of our residents remains our highest priority, and this decision was driven by financial sustainability, staffing challenges, and the increasing costs associated with maintaining a standalone police department while meeting state and federal requirements.

Public safety services will continue without interruption. Law enforcement coverage will be provided through the Lyon County Sheriff's Office, ensuring protection and emergency response for our community. This partnership allows us to maintain essential services while using taxpayer resources responsibly.

We understand that this change may raise concerns and questions. Town leadership is committed to transparency throughout this transition. We will continue to share information, listen to community feedback, and work closely with our law enforcement partners to ensure a smooth and effective transition.

We want to sincerely thank the officers who have served our city with professionalism and dedication. Their service has made a lasting impact on our community, and we are deeply grateful for their commitment.

If you have questions or would like additional information, please contact join us at the upcoming public meeting on February 3rd, 2026 at Americus City Hall.

Thank you for your understanding and continued support as we work to ensure the long-term stability and safety of our community.

Sincerely,

Nicky Nuessen
Council President
City of Americus

The Quieter Side Of February

January arrives like it's had three cups of coffee. Big plans, fresh starts, bold intentions — everything feels possible, and suddenly we're convinced this is the year we become a whole new person.

February is... a little more realistic.

It shows up calmly, takes a look around, and reminds us that life didn't instantly turn into a highlight reel just because we bought a new planner. And honestly, that's kind of refreshing.

This is the month where things settle in. The excitement softens, routines return, and we figure out what actually fits into our days — and what maybe sounded better in theory. Fewer grand gestures, more small moments. Less hustle, more presence.

For some, February means slowing down — earlier nights, quieter evenings, maybe finally finishing that book on the coffee table. For others, it's about leaning in — making plans that don't look impressive on paper but feel good when you say yes to them. And sometimes it's simply about choosing yourself in small, unremarkable ways: a walk around the block, a deep breath, or saying "no thanks" without a five-minute explanation.

Not flashy. Still important.

We tend to think meaningful change has to be loud to count, but February has a way of reminding us that a lot of life happens in the ordinary. In the in-between days. In the choices we make when no one's clapping.

And since February is known for being the month of love, it's worth mentioning that love isn't just flowers and candy. It's patience. It's laughter. It's showing up — for friends, for family, for yourself — even when nothing exciting is on the calendar.

So if this month feels calmer, cozier, or slightly less dramatic than January, you're doing it right. You're not behind. You're just settling into real life.

February doesn't need fireworks to be good. Sometimes it's at its best when it's comfortable, familiar, and quietly full of good things.
